

Pierce students have been "diggin'" archaeology since the 1960s.

If you are interested in archaeology, consider these courses:

- Anthropology 105 (Prehistoric Peoples)
- Anthropology 106 (Introduction to Archaeology)
- Anthropology 132 (Native People of North America)

Additional courses (Prehistoric Technology, Archaeological Fieldwork) are offered periodically.

The Department of Anthropological & Geographical Sciences maintains archaeological collections from several important local sites. Current research focuses on the Tataviam, Chumash, and Tongva cultures. Fieldwork opportunities exist for students who have completed introductory archaeological coursework. For additional information on our archaeology program contact Professor Eisenlauer (818-710-2875).